Who says fundraising has to be a chore? Not us, that's for sure! Try these in-person fundraising ideas.

Jenga

Set up a Jenga board in your office that people play as they pass by. If someone knocks it down, they have to donate or raise $25.

How to get started

Buy/ borrow Jenga. Set it up in a visible place with instructions.

Desk Sore

Deliver a group of fake pink flamingos (or something else that is noticeably hideous) to a co-worker's desk and leave a note explaining the cause. The "victim" can only move the flamingos from their desk once they donate or fundraise a certain amount.

Team Point System Competition

During the fundraising campaign, develop a point system to encourage participation and a friendly competition between team members. The team member that wins earns bragging rights and a prize.

How to get started

Brainstorm and buy/ make your hideous item. Choose your first "victim."

How to get started

Work out your point system. For example:

- 8-points for volunteering on the build site
- 6-points for every $25 donated
- 4-points for every $25 raised

- 2-points for applying for matching gifts

Create inexpensive but meaningful prizes.

Start a competition between departments in your office by giving them each a large jar to collect donations for a designated amount of time. The one with the most collected wins a prize, such as a half day of PTO or a lunch covered by your company.
